

MAXFIELD WILLING TO HAVE RE-ASSESSMENT HEARING PUT OVER OR TO BE DROPPED

WILL MEET COMMITTEE OF THE INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL CLUB HALF WAY IN EFFORTS TO HAVE PROPOSED HEARING EITHER DISCONTINUED OR SET OVER ENTIRELY.

IT MAY STOP HEARING

There is a possibility that the petition for a reassessment of the taxes of the city of Janesville, made by Harry L. Maxfield to the State Tax Commission, may be either withdrawn entirely, or be adjourned for an indefinite period, pending the possible action of the Industrial and Commercial club of this city in taking up the matter of readjustment of the present system of assessing property in Janesville.

Should this come about it will be due to the action of the Industrial and Commercial club last evening in passing a resolution requesting Harry L. Maxfield to withdraw his complaint to the tax commission and authorizing President A. P. Lovejoy to appoint a committee to confer with Mr. Maxfield to put the action of the club before him for consideration. Mr. Lovejoy has not yet appointed such a committee and Mr. Maxfield has received no official word of the action of the club. He, however, states he would be most glad to confer with the committee and the committee, representing the club, could assure him that the organization they represent would take up the matter to bring about the desired results, he would be glad to do what he could to defer action by the tax commission at the present time.

Maxfield's Statement.

When asked relative to the matter this morning Mr. Maxfield gave the following interview: "My object in making an appeal to the state tax commission was twofold. First, I sought to obtain a reduction of the county and state tax assessment for the city of Janesville. I believe that the assessment for this city is too high as compared with other cities in the county correspondingly situated. "However, to accomplish this I would be necessary to appear before the county board of equalization next November and falling then, to appear to the state tax commission. This could not be adjusted until the complaint I filed with the tax commission but was one of the objects in view.

"My second idea was to obtain a more equitable adjustment of the values of the property of the city, so that the values of each class of property will be more uniform as a class. "Finally, I hope to obtain a reduction of the aggregate valuation of the property in the city of Janesville and last, to obtain a more uniform adjustment of the valuation of the manufacturing plants in the city.

"This was my object in filing the complaint with the tax commission. However, I am unofficially informed that I am to be waited upon by a committee of the Industrial and Commercial club, which organization brought this subject up at their meeting last evening, with a view to withdrawing my complaint with the tax commission.

"As the time is now too short for a trial before the commission on the date they set for a hearing, September 12th, and also too late to affect this year's taxation, I would be willing to ask the commission to adjourn the hearing until some later date. I am, meanwhile, have the matter taken up by the Industrial and Commercial club, providing they are willing to work along the same lines that I have endeavored to do, namely, adjust the local taxes and also seek a better equalization of the share of the county and state taxes this city is to pay.

action will be had before the Wisconsin Tax Commission at the city hall in the said city of Janesville, on the 12th day of September, 1911, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at which time and place all persons interested in said matter will be heard on the question of reassessment determined.

WILL REQUIRE THAT NEW STATE LAW BE RIGIDLY ENFORCED

State Officials Taking Steps to See That Requirements of Weights and Measures Law Be Carried Out to the Letter.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 30.—Steps for the enforcement of the state's new weights and measures law, which requires that all dealers in commodities, are being taken daily, and the law is being printed in pamphlet form and will be supplied in a few days to dealers and others interested. Hereafter the use of unmarked weights and measures, except where notice of new devices has been given the superintendent after the last visit of the inspector, will make the offender liable to fine or imprisonment.

Cities Over 5,000.

Every city over 5,000 must have a city sealer. Frank E. Doty, secretary of the civil service commission, will receive applications of candidates for appointment as city sealer. His appointment will be made from the eligible list by the mayor, and the council will determine his salary. He is prohibited from exacting any fees. He must be provided with an office and a set of working standards. In cities of the first, second and third classes it is expected he shall devote all his time to the work, for the law requires him to inspect and seal all weights and measure devices, of every kind, in use in the city at least once a year, as well as to maintain espionage on dealers to see they are giving correct weights on scales that have been sealed.

Can Condemn Measures.

It is his duty also to see that all peddlers give correct weight, to watch the ice man and the coal man, to demand that the milk man sell from full measure bottles, and to make arrests for all violations. He may find, he has the power to condemn all measures that are inaccurate. If repairs are possible they will be condemned for such time as it needed, for the repairs. The sealer must keep a complete record of his work and make an annual report to the state superintendent of weights and measures and also to the mayor, and he is under bond to perform his duties faithfully.

The enforcement of the act is given to the state dairy and food commissioner, at present J. Q. Emory, who has made ex-officio state superintendent of weights and measures. Fred C. Downing is chief inspector of weights and measures, and is entering upon an energetic campaign to secure a square deal for the Wisconsin consuming public. Both these officials are firm in their conviction that the new law is a protection to the merchant as well as to the consumer. The honest merchants as a rule are heartily in favor of it. Mr. Downing found many Madison dealers have been using scales by which they have been cheating their customers.

Sale By Weight.

Unless by written agreement to the contrary, certain specified articles must be sold by weight only, to be computed as follows: Sixty pounds for a bushel of wheat, peas, potatoes, clover seed or beans; 57 pounds for a bushel of onions; 56 pounds for a bushel of Indian corn, rye, lima beans, wrinkled peas, flaxseed, rutabagas or turnips; 54 pounds for a bushel of sweet potatoes; 50 pounds for a bushel of corn meal, rye meal, white meal, best green chickpeas, apples, rye meal, carrots, buckwheat, hickory nuts, or fine salt; 48 pounds for a bushel of barley or Hungarian grass seed; 44 pounds for a bushel of blue grass seed or red top seed; 46 pounds for a bushel of clover seed; 45 pounds for a bushel of timothy seed or rough rice; 44 pounds for a bushel of hemp seed, burrums, or sea island cotton seed; 42 pounds for a bushel of turnips; 35 pounds for a bushel of cranberries; 34 pounds for a bushel of dried peaches; 32 pounds for a bushel of oats; 30 pounds for a bushel of upland cotton seed; 25 pounds for a bushel of dried apples; 20 pounds for a bushel of bran or shorts; 20 pounds for a bushel of coarse salt or lime; 80 pounds for a bushel of unskinned lima; eight pounds for a bushel of plastering hair; 2,200 pounds for a cord of hemlock bark. All dry commodities not otherwise specified in the act may be bought or sold only by standard dry measures, standing weight, or numerical count, except where the parties have had agreement in writing. Where articles are sold by heap measure they must be heaped as high as possible without special effort or design.

Alabama G. O. P. Meeting

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 30.—The advance guard of delegates has arrived in Birmingham for the republican state convention which will meet tomorrow to select a new state committee and chairman to discuss preliminary plans for the next campaign. Harmony will be the keynote of the gathering. The differences which have split the party for a long time just and which for a time threatened its total ruination appear to have been smoothed over and it is believed the convention will be a harmonious affair. The rivalry of the two opposition factions seeking control of the party probably will result in the selection of a compromise candidate for state chairman. The convention is expected to give a hearty endorsement of President Taft and his administration.

WILL ASK MAXFIELD TO RECALL PETITION FOR RE-ASSESSMENT

COMMITTEE FROM INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL CLUB WILL MAKE REQUEST OF CITY ATTORNEY.

WATER WORKS MATTER

Discussion at Smoker Last Evening Regarding Municipal Ownership of Plant—Freight Rates and Other Matters Discussed.

Following a general discussion on the matter of a reassessment of Janesville property which came at the close of the Industrial and Commercial club meeting last night, it was moved and unanimously carried that a committee be appointed from the club to wait upon City Attorney Harry L. Maxfield to request him to withdraw his petition filed with the state tax commission for a reassessment of Janesville property. V. P. Richardson started the ball rolling after the launching of small industries, Mayor Nichols' plan for extending financial aid to newcomers, the city's purchase of the water works, and other matters, had been rather extensively treated. He declared that while we were talking of encouraging manufacturers to come to Janesville, such a thing could not be done when we were asking a value in the tax assessments, particularly with reference to factories. He believed that the Industrial and Commercial club should take a stand in the matter and that a committee should be appointed to appear before the commissioner at the hearing to be held here September 12th.

Thomas S. Nolan offered the motion for appointing the committee to wait on the City Attorney, which was followed by a general discussion. It was plainly the sentiment of the meeting that the reassessment would be detrimental to the best interests of the city and would seriously embarrass the club in their present effort to secure new factories, several establishments being at present seriously considered. Mr. Richardson further remarked that he did not understand what reference the matter of an establishment's rating had to do with the tax assessment. The tendency of the tax assessor, he said, was to boost their rating to a mercenary agency and to keep it down when it came to a matter of assessment. For his part, he never gave any sworn statement to a representative of any agency as to the value of his factory. He also declared that if there was any other reason for the City Attorney's action than the one given in the Gazette article, that he would like to know it.

The matter of fixing or determining tax assessments by means of a firm's rating in Dunn and Bradstreet seemed to be an entirely novel method to the members of the club. John G. Rexford ventured the statement that if that agency were applied of the fact that Janesville assessment valuations were being taken from their ratings, they would undoubtedly entertain fears as to the extent of further patronage in Janesville.

As the assessor from the First ward, George Davey, was in the audience, he was called upon for his views as to factory assessments and on the necessity of a reassessment. He stated that he came to the meeting anxious to learn the sentiment of the business men in the matter. As far as the First ward was concerned, he said, in the last assessment their valuations had been raised to a limited extent. However, he had always taken into consideration that factory property should never be taxed as high as residential property as manufacturing institutions were the life of a community and should be encouraged. He could see no benefit from a reassessment.

President Lovejoy was of the opinion that this agitation was detrimental to the city in the matter of attracting new industries here. He cited as an instance the white phosphorus which was given the club by Wisconsin received from her corporations and other states in the union, and of the numerous letters he received from parties from coast to coast regarding it.

Prod Clemens stated the real argument why manufacturing establishments should be favored with a low assessment valuation. Oftentimes it was the case, he declared, that factories were actually sold for less than their assessed valuation. The reason for this was that factories were subject to depreciation and most of the plants are not available for any other purpose. The personal equation and the men behind the business count a large part and the mere factory plant amounts to little or nothing without the business and enterprise that comes from active management. The cement post factory was given as an example of this.

Following this talk the motion was made by Mr. Nolan was unanimously carried, and the president stated he would name the men later.

Water Works Matter. The proposition of municipal ownership of the water works came up for discussion last night. Mayor Nichols brought up the matter and stated that he was anxious to find the opinion of the club in the matter. Personally he was in favor of the matter and had in mind to request the council to pass an order providing that the matter be voted on at the next spring election. However, he would not do this unless he felt sure that the business interests of the city were behind him. The railroad commission had advised a purchase of the plant and stated that the city could pay for the same in 12 years. With good management the city would be able to pay $12,000 to $15,000 annually on the plant.

at an election that the plant was to be purchased. Thomas S. Nolan believed that as the rates had been scientifically fixed by the commission in their recent consideration of the Janesville case, that the city could not do any better and that everything needed has been attained. It would take a long time to pay for the plant and until the club was better informed, he said, no action should be taken. This was the general opinion and it was decided to make the next smoker a time for the consideration of the water works proposition. The committee on arrangements were named: O. E. Dosteleh, Wm. Dougherty, Chas. Muggleton.

Better Railway Rates. Another important matter which was presented at the meeting last night was that of freight rates. Frank E. Lane has been working on a means of reducing the rates for one of the most important of the Janesville industries, the lumber industry. In conformity with the orders of the club at a previous meeting, Janesville rates were excessively high and cover 200 miles beyond this city to Winona, the rates in this district all being the same from eastern points. Mr. Lane stated that he had been successful in making a number of adjustments in the matter of rates for local firms that have been overcharged. However, the entire system of rates was bad, and the Secretary hopes to have the matter worked out to carry to the Interstate commerce commission. "What we want is a combination of hands," Mr. Lane said, "instead of a through rate. I want the club to back up the proposition and we will take the matter to the Interstate commerce commission."

Mr. Lane stated that several new industries were being lined up but that demands and substantial inducements to locate here which should be taken into consideration.

The meeting last night was called primarily for the consideration of the smaller industries of the city. H. L. McNamara spoke briefly on the stability of the Janesville institutions and pointed out that "hard times" were not felt in this city owing to the diversified character of the manufacturing institutions. They should be encouraged to branch out and the city should offer every favorable inducement to them that is possible.

John G. Rexford treated briefly the matter of financing small industries. Janesville factories, he stated, had grown from small beginnings and had been free from manufacturing growth. Various establishments had come here for consideration, some of which had not been a decided success. However, those located here now had gained their present advantages only by persistent effort. More than capital and business sense were necessary. The personal equation in a business cannot be over-estimated in the matter of industry. Mr. Rexford sounded a conservative key and believed that all manufacturing establishments coming to Janesville should prove their worth before they are allowed too large an amount of financial aid.

Mayor Nichols asked for further discussion of his plan on the matter of financing new industries. He presented his general outline again, and stated that he believed it to be an equitable one. It would provide for a credit which might be extended to new institutions or to those that are here but need to have additional capital to advance. It was a solution, he believed, to the matter of inducement for new factories.

Mail orders are now being received for the forthcoming engagement of "The Servant in the House" at the Myers Theatre Monday, Sept. 4, mat and evening. Because of the pending nature of the play, and the special interest which it makes not only to ordinary theatregoers but to a large circle of persons whose visits to the playhouse are rare events, it is expected that there will be great demand for the seats for the performance given here.

Mail orders will be filled in the order of their receipt. They should be accompanied by check to Peter L. Myers, Mgr., and a self-addressed envelope. Patrons should specify the price, preferred location and number of seats desired.

The company which is to present "The Servant in the House" is the greatest ever sent into the Middle West and numbers among its members no less than three actors who have been stars in their own right.

Unending Procession of Idiots. One would think people would get tired of being killed in automobiles crossing railroad tracks. It seems such an avoidable manner of death. It may be true that the same person is never killed twice that way, but that is no help. The experience of the dead ought to teach the living. Apparently it doesn't. Every motorist must know from repeated and re-repeated demonstration that when a motor car and a train of steam cars dispute at a crossing as to which shall pass first the motor car invariably gets the worst of it. And yet, week after week and month after month, the argument goes on and carriages on the motor car side proceed to the hospital or the cemetery.—Life.

CATHOLIC ORDER ENTERTAIN FRIENDS

Celebrates Twentieth Anniversary With Interesting Program, Music Speeches and Dancing Last Night.

Members of St. Joseph's Court No. 223, Catholic Order of Foresters, and many of their friends celebrated the twentieth anniversary of the organization of the court by a jolly good time at St. Mary's Club house on Wisconsin street last night.

A program consisting of music, speaking and dancing was carried out with great satisfaction to the large crowd which was in attendance. Several musical selections were rendered by the male choir of St. Mary's church at the beginning of the program. Following this came a few selections by the ladies' choir and by the joint choir.

Rev. Father Goebel spoke at length upon the good work done by the Foresters in his congregation and had none but words of commendation for their actions in the past and expressed the hope that the order would thrive and flourish in the future. At the beginning of his talk he informed the audience that Father Roach, of Milwaukee, who was on the program for a speech was unavoidably detained. Father Roach was pastor of St. Mary's congregation twenty years ago and organized the court of Foresters here at that time. Those present felt much disappointed when they learned that Father Roach was unable to be in attendance.

A German quartette, composed of Professor Theodor Toney Kanasuka, G. Baedermann and P. Soukos rendered a few selections that were appreciated very much by the audience.

Deputy High Chief Ranger, A. J. Nordmann, of Madison, gave an interesting talk on the work of Forestry showing the remarkable growth of the order from its small beginning in 1883 to its present membership which totals about 150,000 and spoke of the great amount of good it has done in the distribution of about fifteen million dollars to the wives, children and relatives of deceased and injured members.

Ice cream was served by the ladies at the close of the program and during the intermission.

After the speeches and music were ended the floor was cleared of chairs and dancing was engaged in until about midnight.

The Legion of Honor to Her. Mme. Le Bariller, who writes under the name of Jean Bertheroy, has won sufficient fame as a poet and story writer to receive the much coveted ribbon of the Legion of Honor. Her stories are chiefly historical romances. Among other women he longing to this order are Mme. Patti Miss Cassatt, the American painter; Mme. Deulafay, the archaeologist, who always dresses like a man; Mme. Abama, the artist; Mme. Bartet, the actress, and a number who have distinguished themselves at works of charity or education.

A Slope Traveled. One of the broad slopes of Mont Gineux, France, is reported to have become detached from its foundations, and to have moved over a distance of nearly a quarter of a mile, carrying with it the soil, meadows and woods, and covering up in its passage roads and bridges that stood in the way. A chestnut grove has traveled five hundred feet without suffering any apparent damage, but many small lakes have been formed by the damming of the waters.—Scientific American.

Irish Cows Good Milkers. Irish cows yield from 300 gallons of milk to over 1,000. In one case the yield was 1,469 gallons.

The Skin and Not the Blood. Until recently it has been generally accepted proposition that eczema was a disease of the blood, and that in order to cure it, the blood must be purified and enriched by internal remedies. Careful experiments and scientific investigations have taught us that eczema is purely skin disease, and curable through the skin alone. A great majority of persons afflicted with eczema have no other ailment, which is accepted as positive proof that it is purely a skin disease. Having established this fact, the chemists of the American Drug and Press Association set about to compound a prescription that would successfully cope with this disease, and after much investigating brought out Meritol Eczema Remedy, the effect of which is marvelous. If you are afflicted with this loathsome disease, do not delay trying Meritol Eczema Remedy. You will be surprised at its prompt action, its soothing effect and its permanent results. Reliable Drug Co. are commissioned by the association to sell it in Janesville.

SPORTING NOTES

HACKENSCHMIDT IS OPTIMISTIC TODAY

"Russian Lion" Hurst Into Song at His Training Quarters Which Indicates Pink of Condition.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 30.—Because Hackenschmidt burst into song at his training camp, the "Russian Lion" was in an optimistic frame of mind today. His trainer, Dr. Hoffer, said he had been waiting anxiously for a musical eruption as it always indicates that the wrestler had reached the pink of condition.

WITH THE COXERS.

Jimmy Britt claims the credit of being the originator of the couch used so much by boxers nowadays. George Perry, Hector McInnes, "hoppe," will clash with Al Hagedorn at Newport, N. J., on Labor Day. New York promoters are not very strong for Kid McCoy's comeback stuff and the kid says that he can get bouts outside of New York. The proposed bout between Matty Baldwin and K. O. Brown, which the Army A. A. of Boston was trying to arrange, has fallen through.

Fights Scheduled For Tonight. Matty Baldwin vs. Willie Ritchie, 20 rounds, at San Francisco. Tommy Gary vs. Grover Hayes, 10 rounds, at Cleveland, O.

MARTY O'TOOLE TO MAKE DEBUT WITH PITTSBURGH TODAY

$22,500 Pitching Star Will Be Given First Chance Against Veteran "Cy" Young of Boston.

Boston, Aug. 30.—Probably Boston fans today will witness one of the most interesting pitching duels in the history of baseball. Opposed to each other in one game of the double header between Boston and Pittsburgh will be Marty O'Toole, the youngster for whom release from St. Paul the Pittsburgh Nationals recently paid $22,500, the highest price ever paid for a single player, and Cy Young, "The grand old man of baseball," veteran of 800 games, 500 victories. This will be O'Toole's debut with the Pittsburgh team.

Pal Moore and Tommy Murphy Again. New York, Aug. 30.—At the National Sporting Club tomorrow night Pal Moore, the little Britisher, and Tommy Murphy of this city are to mix it up for ten rounds in another effort to settle the question of relative supremacy. In their last bout several months ago Murphy had decidedly the better of it, but Moore believes that with another chance he can show himself to be at least the equal of the Harlem boy.

BASEBALL NOTES.

Cleveland has the Highlanders, and Detroit is duck soup for the Chase crew.

The two Jacksons in the big show, Joe of Cleveland and George of Boston, are certainly great hitters.

Instead of being a bloomer "Rube" Marquard of the Giants has turned out to be one of the wonders of the season.

A total of 57,000 persons attended the National league games in New York and Brooklyn in one afternoon recently.

Umpire Evans, of the American League, was a sub on the Cornell baseball team when Hugh Jennings was coaching the squad.

The Chicago Cubs have purchased Pitcher Shapflick, of Rockford, the sensational heaver of the Wisconsin-Illinois League.

Frank Schulte, of the Cubs, broke his home-run bat, but found another club and is once more slugging the circuit clouds.

Pitcher "Wild Bill" Donovan of the Detroit Tigers, next to "Cy" Young, is the oldest player in active service in the major league.

Tom Jones, the former Detroit player now with Milwaukee, will coach the Michigan University baseball squad next spring.

Young Becker trimmed the White Sox in Washington but the Sox got back at him in Chicago, making twenty hits for a total of 28.

The Athletics' pitchers are now going at top speed and the team that is able to pass the champions will surely be some bull team.

Manager Fred Clarke is hitting the ball in the regulation way. The old Pirate is working like a young phenom just breaking into the game.

President Russell of the Boston Nationals says that he is confident that "Cy" Young can win as many games as the other Boston pitchers. Is that a knock or a boost?

With their managers, "Red" Doan and Roger Bresnahan, out of the game on account of injuries, the Philadelphia Quakers and the St. Louis Cardinals are surely in tough luck at this stage of the pennant fight.

To Select Cup Defenders.

New York, Aug. 30.—Nine speedy motor boats cut the waters of Huntington Bay today in the first of the trial races to select three boats to defend the British International Trophy. The elimination contests will continue three days and are to be conducted over the same course on which the races between the American defenders and the British challengers will take place next week. The nine boats entered in the elimination trials range in length from 26 to 39 feet and with one exception all are entered from the Motor Boat Club of America.

ARREST SEAMEN FOR MUTINY

Eight Members of Crew Accused of Crime on Ocean.

Kingston, Jamaica, Aug. 30.—When the Atlantic fruit steamer Boli reached here from Philadelphia, eight members of the Chinese crew were arrested on charges of mutiny on the high seas. The prisoners refused to keep up the fires in the boiler room thereby delaying the ship's voyage and the engineer attacked Captain Blevins with a knife.

TURKS TO BUY U. S. CRUISERS

THE HERO OF NIAGARA FALLS.
At top Bobby Leach who is the second person to navigate the cataract. Below, Mrs. Anna Taylor, who went over the Horse-Shoe Falls in a barrel on October 24, 1901.

Niagara Falls, N. Y.—Bobby Leach is recovering from the injuries and bruises which he sustained when he took the drop of 158 feet over the brink of Horse-Shoe Falls in an 11 foot barrel. The injuries were not serious though he was pretty well bruised up. Leach made the trip suspended in a hammock inside a 11 foot barrel especially constructed of steel and heavy reinforced wood for the purpose.

Leach is the second person to navigate the cataract itself. Mrs. Anna Taylor of this city made the trip in a barrel in 1901 and came out alive.

PARTY POLITICS.

In this time of preparation for the coming Presidential campaign of 1912 it is interesting to note the attitude taken by such a paper as the Chicago Tribune on the affairs of politics.

John Callan O'Laughlin the Tribune's Washington correspondent in a dispatch to his paper on August 27th has the following to say relative to the outlook. It is a fair summary of the situation and entirely colorless as regards the rival claimants for the coveted nomination. The Tribune prints it as news, but it really prefigures their attitude in the coming campaign to a certain extent and as such is of interest to the public generally. It is as follows:

"President Taft has accepted a range of battle flanked before him by the progressive Republicans and in his fight for re-nomination and reelection will have them and the Democrats as his common enemy.

"If this interpretation placed by politicians here upon the speech he delivered yesterday at Hamilton, Mass., be correct, he will on his coming western trip not only defend himself but sharply assail the progressiveness in their own communities.

"That is to say, he will denounce La Follette in Wisconsin, Chappin in Minnesota, Gorman in North Dakota, Crawford in South Dakota, Cummings and Keeney in Iowa, Bristow in Kansas, Borah in Idaho, Polk in Oregon, and Works in California.

It will be a trip famous in political history, marked by thunderous utterances, the reverberations of which will reach every corner of the land.

"The progressives are frankly gratified by the change in the president's attitude. Up to this time they have been embarrassed by the charges that they as Republicans, were attacking a Republican president. The Hamilton speech containing such sharp criticism of their action justifies them now, they assert in defending themselves; and they propose to go after the president hammer and tongs.

"Indeed, they would have done so even had the president continued to observe the conciliatory spirit he displayed during the extra session. But now they feel they have the strategic advantage, and they will carry out with greater zeal and hopefulness the program they had agreed upon before leaving Washington. They now assert that by the president's own words the issue has been defined before the people:

"shall progressive republicanism live and conquer?

"In support of their principles they live—at least some of them do—that they will be fully justified in not backing Mr. Taft for reelection should he get the nomination. To do so would be to stultify themselves and to destroy the foundation of a new Republican party which they have been engaged in building.

"They have not got as far as contemplating the holding of a progressive convention and the nomination of a candidate of their own. This would be suicidal. But what Senator La Follette will do in Wisconsin and what some of the others will do in their states is to support progressive candidates for the senate and house of representatives as against Mr. Taft's followers.

"But the plans to pursue following the nomination are merely tentative and may be changed by events. What is concerning the progressives now is to do everything in their power to show that Mr. Taft would not be a successful candidate. The Hamilton speech they regard as proof of this fact.

"The opening blow on the part of the progressives will be delivered by Mr. La Follette. On Thursday next he will deliver a speech before the Pennsylvania state grange convention at Harrisburg. This will be an emphatic denunciation of the progressives' tariff policy and an equally emphatic denunciation of the action of the president with respect to Canadian reciprocity and the wool, free list, and cotton veto.

"The Wisconsin senator does not propose to rest under the imputation that the bills he devised were: 'tariff for politics only,' as epigrammatically stated by Mr. Taft.

"Two or three days later Representative Norris of Nebraska will speak before the Nebraska state fair. His speech will constitute a defense of the house progressives who supported the reduced tariff rates and opposed reciprocity. Of course, in each state the senators and the representatives who are classed as progressives will defend vigorously the votes they cast, and this necessarily must mean criticism of the president.

"A working arrangement also has been reached whereby progressives from one state shall speak in another. In Illinois, for example, five progressive senators will take the stump—La Follette, Borah, Cummins, Chappin and Bristow.

"Moreover, it would not be surprising should Mr. La Follette make a tour of the country, passing through the same territory invaded by the president. He cannot begin the trip until the middle of October, as he is tied up by magazine work which he must finish before he leaves Washington.

"Gratified as the progressives are over the president's Massachusetts speech, they joyfully take to a light gray that when compared with that of the regular Republicans. The militant among the latter have been apprehensive that Mr. Taft would swing over to the progressives in spite of their hostility in order to assure their support in the coming campaign.

"They knew his advisers were urging that he retain the strategic advantage of having the progressives attack the chief of their own party."

Mr. Maxfield has intimated that when the committee appointed by the Industrial and Commercial Club confer with him he will be willing to withdraw his request for a reassessment of the city's taxes providing the Industrial and Commercial Club, or the business men of the city take the matter up so that an equitable adjustment can be made before the next assessment in 1912.

It was evidenced at the Industrial and Commercial Club's smoker last evening that Janesville is awakening to its responsibility if the city is going to move ahead. The way every citizen can aid in this forward movement is by uniting their efforts with the club by becoming members.

The Industrial and Commercial Club looked at the question of reassessment in the same light as did the Gazette, that it would be most disastrous to the best interests of the city.

Chapman Clark's opinion of President Taft is not just exactly what the friends of the President would call a complimentary press notice.

The sudden drop in temperature was not expected and consequently not pleasing to the summer resorters of the region further north.

Whatever may have caused the cynical smile on the face of the Mona Lisa it is now at the expense of the Louvre officials.

UNCLE WALT THE POET PHILOSOPHER

(Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams.)

By WALT MASON.

Doubtless dunes deserve the bullet and the other things they wish. I won't stand around and argue—I'd rather go and fish. I have met the suffragists women. He turned to their tale of woe, but not one of the legion could persuade me to elope. I can listen quite politely while men explain their dream, but I'd never buy them points or invite them to ice cream. I can seem quite sympathetic while the suffragist orates, but I'd never want to take her for a whirl or roller skates. It is strange that lovely dunes who don't care a whoop for votes always have as many lovers as a husbandman has sheaves; men admire them and adore them; lovers treat away their lives till they have secured a promise from these girls to be their wives. Why are men so blind and foolish, marrying these trifling girls, who have naught to recommend them but their stumpy eyes and curls? Why not hang the orange blossoms on the noble suffragist dunes, with their tragic eyes and voices and their missions and their aims? Why not wed some worthy relic with her sex's good in view, rather than some blushing maiden who has charming eyes of blue?

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

SARAH MOORE, PATRIOT.

One of the constant needs of humans is the inspiring example of noble deeds.

And that is why the story of Sarah W. Moore is worth while.

Where most people see in a group of Italian workmen a "lot of dagoes" Miss Moore saw in them brothers in need.

About ten years ago Miss Moore, a woman without influence or wealth, undertook to do something for the incoming aliens who land in such numbers at New York. She selected as the object of her labors the most despised and rejected of these—the Italian laborers.

Because of her persistent efforts the Society for Italian Immigrants was organized, which society has accomplished a world of good.

And then—Not satisfied with this society, which greets and cares for the ignorant immigrants from Italy, Miss Moore turned her attention toward making these aliens into good citizens.

During the building of the New York aqueduct, the great artificial waterway by which the city gets its water, thousands of Italian laborers have been employed.

These gangs live in camps such as one sees when railroads are being built.

Manners and men are in the rough. In these crude camps Miss Moore opened camp schools for the education of the Italians. Repeatedly told by the water commissioners and the contractors that schools would not be permitted, Miss Moore persisted and succeeded.

Moreover, it is told of her that in writing the little primer which she printed for the use of the workmen she learned the words which the men needed to know by sitting on the bank of an excavation and listening to the orders given.

Stricken with paralysis, Miss Moore continued to the time of her death to inspire the young women teachers who were her helpers.

Here was a patriotic mission. If the melting pot of America is finally to fuse into one citizenship the dissimilar elements that are cast into it for the melting it must be by such sacrificing labors as those of Sarah W. Moore, patriot.

And—Although there were no great headlines in the newspapers the day after this heroic woman died, whose life better deserved such notice?

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

GREAT EARTHQUAKE IN THE MISSISSIPPI VALLEY.

By A. W. MACY.

In the winter of 1811-12 there was a great earthquake, or rather a series of earthquakes, in the Mississippi Valley. The shocks began on the night of December 16, and continued at irregular intervals all that winter. Between December 16 and March 15 no less than 1,874 distinct shocks were recorded, of which eight were of the first order of intensity. The most severe ones occurred on December 16, January 23 and February 7. In some places along the banks of the Mississippi the earth would open in wide fissures, and suddenly closing again would throw mud, sand and water as high as the tree tops. "After shaking the Mississippi valley to its center," says one writer of the time, "it vibrated along the courses of the rivers, passed the primitive mountain barriers, and died away along the shores of the Atlantic." The town of New Madrid, which seemed to be at the center of the disturbance, was practically destroyed. The "New Orleans," the first steamboat to navigate the waters of the Ohio and the Mississippi, was then making her first voyage, and those on board were very greatly alarmed.

Attractive Vase.

An effective centerpiece for the breakfast table is a flower vase of wood brown bamboo. They come in a variety of shapes. Inside are sheet iron or metal receptacles to hold the water. Most any flower shows to advantage against the dull brown of the bamboo. Many of these vases are loosely woven and dull red or green pottery peeks through the interstices. They may be found in any oriental store.

Weather Conditions.

The bureau that struck Charles-ton last Sunday has withdrawn to a moderate barometric depression with its center over northern Georgia. It has been attended by general rains along the Atlantic seaboard as far as Boston. A rainfall of 2.00 inches was recorded at Washington.

The area of high atmospheric pressure that has been passing over this region has now reached the lower Ohio Region and St. Lawrence Valley, attended by clear cool weather, and light frosts in exposed places.

Another barometric depression is moving eastward along the Canadian border, and is now crossing the northern plains. It is attended by showers and thunderstorms in the Missouri and Red River valleys. It will cause increasing cloudiness in this vicinity, with showers tonight or Thursday. The temperature will continue slowly rising.

The weather is generally fair in the Southwest and West. It is still cool in the northern Rockies, where the cool air is favorable to loss of heat by radiation.

Progress of the Race.

The average English baby over whom the mother crones today is morally and intellectually no better endowed in hereditary character than the infant who lay in his mother's lap in early Phlogenean times. In each case the child may be regarded as a bundle of inherited potentialities. But we must remember that potentialities can only be realized as actualities under appropriate conditions. The aim of moral training and education is to afford the best opportunities for the development of the child-plants for whom we hold ourselves socially responsible—to provide an environment under whose stimulating influence every worthy potentiality shall blossom into the realized flowers of the ethical life, while the immoral and unsocial tendencies, which all of us inherit, shall remain in abeyance.—C. Lloyd Morgan.

Simplified Spelling.

Spel only way 34 plez. This is the declaration of a brandy mathuze, professor in a university, a noted critic and lecturer, a member of the simplified spelling board and a few other things. Wat cures he that eelsentrick spelling is like the muel—without pride of ancestry or hope of posterity? It matters not to brander that there is a rite and a rone about spelling as much as there is a rite and a rone about pronouncing. Fringstence, wa nite express the ophynum that brander is a beunt of a professor and spel it butt, which wud be punefully lunkature, not to say mislending. Go to, brander; we like not yore goonsyplex spelling. It makes us tired and we feel it makes the lineotype man speke evil thawts.—Pittsburg Sun.

A New White Race.

The Japanese is slightly yellow because he has descended from ancestors that were colored by millenniums of tropical sunshine, but in the course of time the Japanese will be as white as any European. Even now there are vast numbers of Japanese who cannot be distinguished in complexion from the so-called white races.—Japan Times.

A Scary Horse.
A man in upper New York state, who was desirous of purchasing a horse for the use of his wife, recently entered into negotiations with a veteran horse dealer. "Now, I'm not so particular about speed," said the prospective purchaser, "but I must have a gentle horse." "There is one that'll warrant to be perfectly safe," said the dealer, indicating a sad-looking steed nearby. "Are you sure he is not afraid of anything?" inquired the man. The dealer assumed an air of deep reflection. "Well," he said, "there's one thing he has always appeared to be afraid of ever since I got him. It seems as if he's scared to death for fear some one might say 'when' and he not hear it."—Lippincott's.

Electricity's Vast Growth.
The total investment in electric light plants in the United States is now more than two billion dollars, according to reports presented to the National Electric Light association. The report covers practically 5,000 stations, having an estimated total horse power capacity of more than 7,000,000 and kilowatt capacity of 5,000,000. The operating companies have a total capitalization of $2,100,000,000, and an annual income of $200,000,000.

The Rain Tree.
A tree known as the rain tree—Mitrosacolum nanum—is found in the driest parts of South America. This tree grows to the height of 60 feet, and its leaves have the peculiar property of condensing the moisture from the atmosphere. So copious is this condensation that a continual shower falls from the leaves and branches until the surrounding soil is converted into a veritable marsh. Places that would otherwise be barren desert are by this means covered with the most luxuriant forests.

The cork industry is of great importance in Spain. Large cork factories are located in the districts of Catalonia, Extremadura and Andalusia, employing several thousand workmen.

BAD FREIGHT WRECK IN SOUTH SIDE YARDS

ELEVEN MEN INJURED WHEN CABOOSE AND MIGRANT CAR COLLIDED ABOUT NINE O'CLOCK LAST NIGHT.

ONE MAN BADLY HURT

Prof. F. M. Jack, Institute Conductor, At River Falls Normal, Moving To Beloit, Slightly Hurt In Demolished Car.

One man lies in Mercy Hospital in a critical condition and ten others more or less seriously injured as the result of a freight car collision in the South Janesville yards early last night, in which the caboose of a through stock train was overturned and an emigrant car filled with furniture and household utensils was completely demolished.

Professor Frank M. Jack, Institute conductor at River Falls normal, was in the demolished car with his furniture, which he was moving to his new home at Beloit and escaped with only minor bruises to his left side and arm. How any man could have escaped from the car with his life is a wonder to all who viewed the wreck.

The injured are: H. M. Gilmore, Miles City, Montana, age 54, married, contusion over stomach, internal injuries are feared. Still in hospital.

Carl Brandell, Ft. Atkinson, back injured, returned to his home this morning.

Frank S. Robinson, stockman, Jordan, Montana, face bruised and cut badly. Went to Chicago on an early train.

M. Lyons, brickman, Chicago, shoulder bruised not seriously. Went to his home this morning.

A. T. McNitt, stock buyer, Ft. Atkinson, shoulder injured, spent night at hotel and went to his home today.

John E. Jensen, Holmdel, Wis., stockman, head cut and bruised.

L. S. Robinson, Blatford, Montana, shipper, leg bruised and strained.

John Gaiser, Baldwin, Wis., body bruised and scratched, injury slight.

Ely Duden, Ft. Atkinson, minor injuries.

John Martin, Blatford, Montana, injuries slight.

The accident was due to the mistake in signals of the night switching crew as the caboose of the long stock train was being put in readiness for the last lap of the long trip from the far west. The stock train was standing on the siding and the stockmen had changed from the day caboose to another, which was to be placed on the rear of the train for the remainder of the trip.

As this was being brought into place along one of the side tracks another engine was shifting a box car which contained the household goods owned by Mr. Jack into place on another freight train and the caboose and freight car were smashed into each other with considerable force.

The caboose in which several stockmen and members of the train crew was thrown over on its side and the occupants hurled into a heap, together with the furniture of the car. The box car which contained household goods and a horse which Professor Jack was moving to his new home at Beloit, was completely demolished. One half of it was torn into kindling wood and most of the contents were totally destroyed.

Mr. Jack who was riding in the car to attend to his property was hurled beneath a mass of tangled furniture and wreckage and it is a mystery to all who saw the wreck that he is living to tell of his experience.

Mr. Jack is well known in educational circles throughout this and neighboring states for the active part he has taken in high school and normal work for many years. He has served as principal of the high schools for some time at Edgerton, Sparta and at the South Side school in Milwaukee.

He was employed for about four years as state high school inspector and during the last three or four years has occupied the position of institute conductor at the state normal school at River Falls. He recently decided to make his home at Beloit and was moving his household utensils to that place when most of his belongings were destroyed in the wreck last night.

Mrs. Jack, who was visiting friends at Edgerton came to this city early today and accompanied Mr. Jack to their new home in the line city.

Soon after the wreck occurred an extra caboose was rushed to the scene and the injured men placed into it and brought to this city, where the ambulances and carriages were waiting. The men were taken to the Mercy Hospital, where Dr. E. F. Woods, surgeon for the Northwestern Company, with the assistance of Drs. Fillet and Mills hurriedly examined the injured men and found that only Mr. Gilmore and Mr. Brandell were seriously hurt.

These and Mr. Jack were given accommodation in the hospital for the remainder of the night and the other eight went to the hotels, where they found lodgings. Mr. Brandell, it was found, had sustained injuries to his spine, but he felt much better this morning and decided to return to his home at Fort Atkinson. All the other men from the far west continued their journey to Chicago this morning and those from this state went to their respective homes.

H. M. Gilmore, who is still at the hospital will be disabled for some time and it is feared that he has sustained internal injuries the extent of which the physicians are not yet able to ascertain definitely.

The local wrecking crew was set to work early this morning and had the tracks cleared of the wreckage in short time.

JANESVILLE MAN'S BROTHER KILLED

Earl Drake Called to Engully, Wis., by the Death of His Brother, Who Was Killed in Mill.

Alon Drake brother of Earl Drake of this city, who is employed at the McNamara hardware store was killed about eight o'clock Monday morning at Engully, a small settlement near Durand, Wis., when his clothes became caught in machinery at a mill where he was working. The funeral of Mr. Drake was held today at Engully.

The deceased had been employed at Engully and was in charge of an electric power plant and mill operated by a big dam there. On Monday morning he went in the lower part of the mill to oil some machinery, taking his small daughter with him. FORMER JANESVILLE WOMAN IS ARRESTED

Mrs. Carrie Jacobs Bond Has Experience With Los Angeles Politician Which Ends in Trouble.

From Los Angeles comes the following story of Mrs. Carrie Jacobs Bond, a former Janesville resident, which will interest her friends here. According to the dispatch Mrs. Carrie Jacobs Bond of Chicago, a well known American song writer, turned her new motor car across the stream of traffic in Broadway today and Traffic Officer Deas stopped her. She remonstrated and Deas took her to the police station. At first she refused to give bail. They showed her the city jail. "What?" she exclaimed, "would you put me behind bars?"

"According to law, there is nothing else to do," answered Sergeant McClure.

"I want a receipt," she said as she deposited $5 for her appearance in court.

"Your liberty is your receipt," she was told.

"That officer could have requested me to turn, instead of commanding me," was her parting shot.

HIS BELONGINGS.

If ownership of something is essential for a man, it is for a boy as well. It is necessary in a man because God has put him in the midst of things that are to be owned, has given him a desire for possession and has distinctly told him to subdue and use them.

So a boy must begin to have things of his own, for he needs training in that, as well as in his memory or reasoning or power of speech. Through his memory, he owns much; through laying up something, he is providing for the future and increasing his present enjoyments and opportunities. One can own only what he can know and use. The vagrant has nothing to enjoy; the very rich own very little of what they have, because they cannot enter into it, just as a man can have great supplies of food, but only assimilate one meal at a time. But some men are like an arrow—go through life and accumulate nothing.

A boy must gratify that desire, secure that discipline and feel that responsibility, by owning and caring for and managing something. He must have his own comb and brush, toys, books, clothes and articles of usefulness. His pockets show his passion for possession, a blind desire, working without the power of selection, and the result is an aggregation of things entirely useless, except to a boy—knife, tops, marbles, bean-shooters, beewax, bullets, buckles, lead, scrap iron, string, fishing hooks, fishing line, fishing worms, chewing gum, licorice, candy, pills. There is an age when he is more active in such enterprises, but he is doing the same thing he does when he amasses wealth. He has a trading age, from about eleven to fifteen, when he will trade any thing he has for any thing any other boy has—cats and dogs and pigeons and toys and any of the things he carries in his pockets.

He must not only possess things, but take care of them as well. The penalty for not having what he can call his own is that he never has anything to give to others, is thriftless, selfish, begging, borrowing and tempted to steal what he would like to have. Possessions mean power and thrift is preparation for peace. He cannot take care of his own things unless he has a place for them which is his own. That is one of the reasons why a boy should have a room, and a trunk, and the equipment with which he can take care of his things. That is not the only reason he should have a separate room, but that is enough.

What has been said about all of this applies especially to his money. As he is expected to make money and possess it and use it in the future, he must begin it, as a boy, and learn to do it in the right way, so as to avoid the wrong way later. The very same principles that he is to observe when he is to be acted upon now, both because they are right and because he will not act on them, as a man, unless he learns to act on them now.

How is he to get it? That is a matter of far-reaching importance. He may properly get it in two ways—receive it as a gift and earn it. Both ways are necessary. It should come in the form of an allowance, given freely and regularly.

Often he can earn money without weakening his sense of obligation to serve his parents or the family. I recall, with the greatest pleasure, the money my cousin and I made for ourselves and saved for his father, by gathering up the apples, that would otherwise have gone to waste in his father's orchard, and selling them on the streets of Petersburg and giving away what we failed to sell. We turned one-half the gross receipts over to the owner of the orchard and divided the other half between us. But it is a question, even today, whether we found more pleasure in the money we made or in the way we made it.

How shall he take care of it? He will be apt to get rid of it fast enough. That was an exceptional boy, who swallowed the five dollar gold piece, and they applied the stomach pump to recover it. His Hebrew father complained bitterly at the boy's cupidty, for all he could get back was $2.50.

But as to the allowance: It must be given in such a way as to keep him responsible to his parents. As it comes regularly, it cultivates in him order and system. A pocket book, to keep it in, ministers to his pleasure, makes him orderly and enables him to save it more easily. An account book to set down receipts and expenditures in, trains him in the virtue of accuracy. Reports to his father each week, keep alive the sense of responsibility to authority, even for his own things. Requiring him to save a part of each week's allowance enables him to accumulate and encourages thrift. A small reward for additional savings will still further teach him the value of money. A rigid refusal to allow him to spend it, in injurious ways, may prevent spendthrift habits. Putting as much as possible every six months in a savings bank, that will pay him interest, gives him an idea of business. Meeting some of his personal expenses with his own money will teach him forethought and self-denial.

Suspicious.

"That stranger protests that he has been given a degree in several places." "Then I bet it was the third."

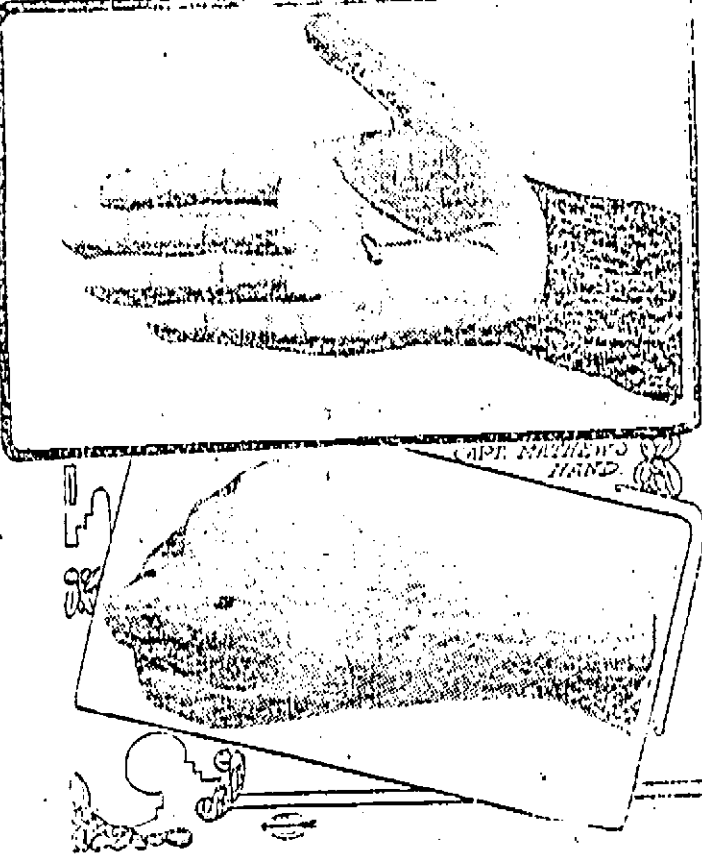

CRUCIFIED BUT LIVES TO TELL OF EXPERIENCES.

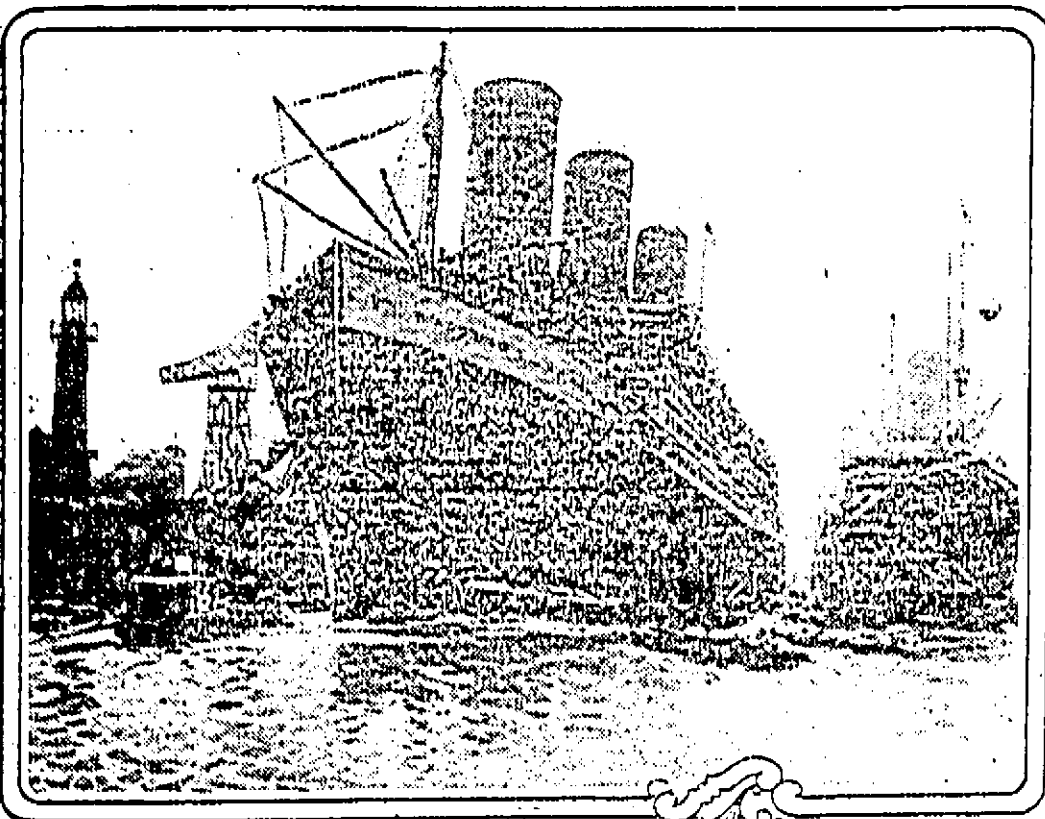

Captain Edward J. Mathews, who was crucified in 1878 by Turkish soldiers and views of the front and back of his hand showing the nail holes still plainly seen.

Boston, Mass.—Captain Edward J. Mathews today hale and hearty, and one of the best young men on the New Bedford and Boston run is probably the only living man who ever underwent the ordeal of being crucified. The horrible experience shattered his nerves for a time and left the nail prints on his hands as a constant reminder of the experience.

It was while he was a member of the U. S. navy in 1878 that Capt. Mathews was sent on the U. S. Frigate Trenton to the Holy Land to prevent massacres by the Turkish gendarmes. It was in May while on this trip that he was surrounded and captured by Turkish soldiers, beaten with heavy swords and kicked and dragged about until he was nearly dead. It was then that one of the Turks who spoke a little English said: "So you came to see the land of Jesus, did you? Well, we'll fix you just the same way they fixed him." They got some timber which looked as though it came from a house and nailed two pieces together forming a stout cross. To this he was nailed, suffering great agony during the operation. However, before the cross was placed in an upright position, sailors from the Trenton got wind of the capture of Captain Mathews and rescued him.

THE EMPEROR.

LARGEST SHIP IN THE WORLD TO BE FITTED WITH ANTI-SEASICKNESS DECKS

The gigantic nine hundred foot company on a small ship, and, so it is averred, has reduced the oscillation in heavy weather, from 65 to 3 degrees. In the case of a craft of the size of the Emperor, it is believed that these three degrees will be eliminated altogether.

The colossus will reach this country in the spring of 1913. The exact date of her launching has not been set. She is 25,000 tons displacement, and nearly 900 feet in length. There are nine decks above the water line. She will not be a fast boat, being built more for solid comfort than great speed. Her time across the Atlantic will be in the neighborhood of seven days. Her engines are of the reciprocating type. She has accommodations for 4,250 passengers of all classes, and carries a crew of 1,000.

Among the special features of her construction are a reproduction of ancient Roman baths in bronze, marble and ivory; a roof garden; squash courts; gymnasium; swimming pool and a rathskeller, besides a library, lounging rooms and so forth.

Knew Where They'd Be.
One of those women who are so popular that they have had two or three husbands encountered a friend. It was just after the popular one had been married a third time and the friend, heartily, said: "My dear, does it never occur to you that you will have some difficulty in the reunion in heaven?" "Ah, you dear thing," was the gay response, "You know that never troubles me. Why, my dear, I still cling to the old-fashioned idea of another place beside heaven, and I know my former husbands well enough to know where they'll be."

Dog's Beauty Doctor.
We hear a good deal about massage, lotions, prescriptions, all calculated to transform even the plainest woman into a thing of beauty. Now, as it appears, the canine race is being similarly taken in hand under the auspices of a veterinary surgeon. At least, in a prospectus the following list of charges is drawn up: Alteration of the shape of the muzzle, 50¢; insertion of wrinkles on the face of a bulldog, 50¢; change of the size of the tail, 20¢; removal of superfluous hair, 6¢ per hour; change of the color of the skin, 30¢; and so on. So there is some hope at last even for the vilest mongrel.

Imagined He Was Satan.
Insane persons often have weird fancies which are very real to them, and they sometimes say funny things in the most serious way. A former attendant at the Central Hospital for the Insane tells of a man who imagined himself to be Satan. "One day as I approached him," says the attendant, "he shouted: 'Wow, wow, I am the devil, I am the devil; what time is it?' I drew my watch and said: 'About four o'clock.' 'Four o'clock,' he exclaimed, 'and I promised to be in hell at six!'"—Indianapolis News.

Hook-worm Needed Also.
"See that measuring worm crawling up my shirt!" cried Mrs. Jenks. "That's a sign I'm going to have a new dress." "Well, let him make it for you," growled Mr. Jenks. "And while he's about it, have him send a hookworm to do you up the back. I'm tired of the job."

Volcano a Wealth Producer.
A fairly enthusiastic volcano is one of the world's freaks as a wealth producer. Hongo, the volcano in question, is located in Japan, and produces refined sulphur, which by this natural means of iron. Iron escapes the import duty charged by this country, amounting to $4 a ton. The owners of Hongo naturally have no desire to part with their fiery source of income.

FOUR HUNDRED IN BURNING BUILDING

Fire in Chicago Office Building Imperils Lives of Scores.

COOL HEADS PREVENT PANIC

Elevator Operators Stick to Post Until Last Person Leaves Burning Structure — Police Rescue Telephone Operator Overcome by Smoke.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—Fire starting in a storeroom of the Chicago and Alton Railway company in the Patton building, Harrison street and Fifth avenue, imperiled the lives of 400 men, women and girls employed on the eighth and ninth floors, who fled panic-stricken by every available way of escape.

Only a few were injured slightly, cool-headed men and women preventing a stampede that might have resulted in great loss of life. With scores of frightened women clinging to the fire escapes men in the street gave warning that there was no great danger and prevented several from jumping.

Leaping Girl Is Halted.

One girl on the fifth floor was compelled to pass almost directly in the line of the flames pouring out of the window below her. She hesitated and appeared about to leap to the street when another woman took her by the arm and the two passed safely down to the ground. The cool act of the second woman was observed by hundreds in the street and the pair was lustily cheered as they descended.

Meanwhile there was the greatest confusion inside, as hundreds stampeded for the stairways and elevators. The stairways were jammed and only the act of some foolhardy person was needed to send scores of human beings to their death in a heap at the bottom of the stairways. But always there was some man or woman in the right place to calm the fears.

Phone Operator Overcome.

Miss Catherine Hayden, a telephone operator employed on the eleventh floor by the Harrison Coal company, was overcome by smoke, being the last one to attempt to leave the office. Miss Hayden stopped to answer several calls while others were fleeing, and when she started toward the door was overcome. She was missed by fellow employees and the policemen holding back the crowd in front of the structure were notified. They hurried into the building and soon returned carrying the young woman. She revived soon after reaching the fresh air.

Elevator Man a Hero.

A. B. Greig proved the hero of the elevators. He was the operator of one and he never left his post until the last person was out of the building. When he brought down the final "load" he had to be carried from his car, but quickly revived in the open air. The three other elevator men also did heroic work, all sticking to their cars till the last.

The building is across from the Grand Central station and is occupied chiefly as offices, mostly those of railroads.

The loss is estimated at $25,000, not including priceless records of the Chicago & Alton railroad.

Besides the railroad company the Holmes Manufacturing company, Meyer & Co., tailors, and the Smith Manufacturing company suffered losses. Thousands of dollars' worth of woollens and suitings in Meyer & Co.'s stock room were ruined by water.

COURT ENJOINS ONION ODOR

Des Moines Judge Issues Injunction to Stop Smell.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 30.—Judge Lawrence D. Grant, who by issuing a mandatory injunction a few weeks ago effectually ended what threatened to become a serious street car strike, issued an injunction which is intended to afford the tenants of an office building relief from the pungent fumes of cooking onions.

The complainants told the court they did not enjoy the odors which escaped from the chimneys of a restaurant across the alley.

Judge De Grant ordered the restaurant company to raise its chimney high enough to carry the odors above the complainants' offices.

BOY BURNED PLAYING INDIAN

Companions Pour Gasoline Over Lad's Body and Ignite It.

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 30.—Charles Stevens, aged nine, while playing "Indian" with two companions received burns which physicians say will be fatal. Howard Ross, aged ten, and Arthur Aleck, aged nine, conceived the idea of pouring gasoline over Stevens' body and lighting it. Neighbors were attracted by the lad's screams and before the flames were extinguished young Stevens was terribly burned.

Beeskeepers at Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 30.—From all over the country beeskeepers have come here to attend the convention of their national association, which began today and will continue through tomorrow. The officers of the association are: President, George W. York, Chicago; vice president, W. D. Wright, Altamont, N. Y.; secretary, L. H. Tyrrell, Detroit, Mich.; treasurer, N. E. Franco, Plattville, Wis.

Canaries Are Long-Lived.

Canaries have been known to live twenty-one years.

RAILROADS STAND PAT IN SHOP CONTROVERSY

Lines Refuse to Deal With Federation, But Willing to Hold Conference With Employees.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—Upon the view taken by the railroad shophmen as to their chances of a victorious outcome depends, to a large extent, the prospects of a strike of employees on the western lines in the near future. The railroads have no intention of recognizing officially the federation of shop trades, although it remains to be seen whether they will adhere to this determination when the situation on the various roads reaches a final stage. While the Illinois Central, the Harriman lines and the Northwestern have been willing to hold conferences with representatives of their employees, they have thus far stood pat on the proposition that they will deal only with the individual unions representing the various crafts.

An element of peace was injected into the situation temporarily when the Illinois Central officials gave a reply to the committee representing the federated shopmen and announced that a conference with the committee would be held. The announcement, however, gave no sign of any intention to conduct negotiations with the federation.

"I have received a communication from the international officers asking for a conference," said W. L. Park, vice-president and general manager of the Illinois Central, in a statement. "I have said to them that we will meet accredited representatives of the organization with which we have contracts."

DIGGING TUNNEL TO MANSION

No Delivery Wagons Will Drive Up to Rockefeller Home.

Tarrytown, N. Y., Aug. 30.—John D. Rockefeller has begun the work of digging a tunnel from his mansion on top of Kykuit hill to a road near his stable, to be used by drivers of all delivery wagons.

The tunnel will be about 1,000 feet long and will cost many thousands of dollars, but Mr. Rockefeller has decided that hereafter no delivery wagons will drive up to his home.

RAID TOWNS IN FOOD WAR

French Women Lead Mobs in Numerous Cities and Villages.

Paris, Aug. 30.—Processions of women, some of them numbering 2,000, are marching in the cities and towns of northern France protesting against the high prices of provisions.

At Lille, Cambrai, Douai, Valenciennes, Bethune, Lens and at many smaller places a species of anarchy prevails because the rations are too few in number to protect the dealers of food from the destructive impulses of the manifestants.

Women malcontents in some of the northern departments are marching from village to village, running over farms and damaging dairies and vegetable gardens to indicate their sense of grievance because of the high cost of living.

DECLARE OPEN WAR ON TAFT

Progressives Open Headquarters in Washington to Direct Fight.

Washington, Aug. 30.—Progressive Republicans have declared open war on President Taft. Permanent headquarters have been opened here with W. L. Houser, former secretary of state for Wisconsin, in charge, and the progressive fight against the re-election of President Taft will be continuous until the nominating convention shall have completed its work.

This is the formal announcement: "A campaign has been undertaken by Progressive Republicans both in and out of congress to obtain the nomination of a progressive candidate by the next Republican convention. A fight will be made in every state and congressional district where there is any chance of securing delegates favorable to a progressive candidate."

SUIT TO REGAIN INDIAN LAND

United States Starts More Than 1,000 Equity Cases.

Fortuna Falls, Minn., Aug. 30.—More than one thousand chancery cases have been started in the United States district court here in the equity suit in which the United States is seeking to recover the title to land in Becker, Clearwater and Manoomin counties, which was transferred to white people by Indians. The government alleges that when mixed blood Indians were authorized to sell the patents to their land on the reservation, many of the full-blooded Indians sold theirs also, making affidavits that they were of mixed blood.

PROPOSAL MAY PROVE NO JOKE

Illinoisian Asks Girl In Jest to Marry Him—She Sues.

Rock Island, Ill., Aug. 30.—Two years ago, while he was a student at the University of Illinois, Frank Venable wrote what he now terms a "joke" proposal of marriage to Miss Mary H. Fuhr, and she accepted. Recently Venable married another, Miss Fuhr has begun suit for $10,000, alleging breach of promise.

Human Chain Snaps; Man Dies. Tucson, Ariz., Aug. 30.—The breaking of a human chain formed in an attempt to rescue Henry D. Hilly of Hollis Plains, Ia., from drowning in the Santa Cruz river, cost Hilly his life.

GORMAN WINS IN MARYLAND

Returns From Primary Indicate His Nomination for Governor.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 30.—Returns from the Democratic primary election in Maryland indicate that State Senator Arthur P. Gorman, son of the late United States Senator Gorman, will be the nominee of the Democratic party for governor at the November election.

Mr. Gorman's opponent was State Senator Blair Lee, who had the support of the so-called progressive element.

BODIES CUT FROM GLACIER

Believed to Be Those of Englishmen Who Perished 14 Years Ago.

Berne, Switzerland, Aug. 30.—The frozen bodies of two men were chopped from the Loetschen glacier and brought to this city. While the bodies have not as yet been identified, it is believed here that they are probably those of two London tourists named Hembecke and Cohn, who disappeared 14 years ago.

SAVES CHILDREN; LOSES LIFE

Fairfield (Ill.) Woman Burned to Death When Home Is Destroyed.

Fairfield, Ill., Aug. 30.—Mrs. Joice Young, wife of a farmer near this city, was burned to death when the residence was destroyed by fire. Three grandchildren living with the family were critically burned after their grandmother had lost her life in trying to rescue them.

PRINCE OF INDIA IS DEAD

Nizam of Hyderabad Passes Away at Age of Forty-Five.

Hyderabad, British India, Aug. 30.—Araf Jah Nizam-ul-Mulk, the Nizam of Hyderabad and the premier prince of the Indian empire, is dead. He was born August 18, 1865, and succeeded his father, the Nizam Afzal-ud-daulah, on the latter's death February 24, 1899. He belonged to a family of the highest antiquity and importance among the Mohammedan rulers, being lineally descended from the first Khalif, Abu Bakr, the successor of the prophet.

Another "Mona Lisa" Gone.

Rome, Aug. 30.—The Giornale prints a story to the effect that a copy of Mona Lisa has been stolen from a gallery in the Villa Carlotta at Lake Como. This, coming after the Paris theft, has led to the belief that some person of unsteady mind is making a tour of the old galleries of Europe, apparently with the object of securing all the copies of Da Vinci's famous work.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

THE lady who always knows somehow had been regaling us with some hints as to winter fashions, which she had had just cleaned from a tour of the shops. She had also been displaying several samples which she had collected in the effort to find for her winter gown, the exact shade of golden brown which would match her eyes.

The Casual Visitor had endured this conversation with ill concealed impatience. "Really!" she burst out at last, when the samples had finally been laid aside, after we had rendered our decision of merits. "Really, I don't see how you can afford to spend so much time on your clothes. I can't. I shouldn't have time for anything else."

The Casual Visitor is a very clever business woman. It is obvious to anyone who knows her that she does have time for many other things. It is equally obvious that she does not have time for clothes.

And while those of us who know her well have become used to her ill fitting and unbecoming garb, and scarcely notice it except when there is something especially fragrant about it, there is no doubt whatever but that her appearance often prejudices strangers and new acquaintances against her and makes her social and business pathway that much rougher.

There are a great many men and women who have the Casual Visitor's notion that they are frivolously away the time they spend in the selection and care of clothes.

Personally, I think they are investing it in gift edge ten per cent, that is, when they utilize a reasonable amount of their time and wealth in this way. In a recent magazine, a college girl tells how she earned every cent of the money for a college course. Incidentally, she gave an account of the very respectable wardrobe she provided herself with and added: "Before leaving the subject of dress, I wish to say that my hard work and study to make my clothes up-to-date was more than worth the trouble. They help one to appear one's best, and in so doing, the better class of people are attracted. Care in the matter of dress indicates a methodical and often a refined mind."

Surely that girl had reason to know the value of time and money, and therefore, her verdict on the efficiency of clothes is worth some attention. I happen to know that the Casual Visitor, when urged by her friends to pay more attention to her personal appearance, often says: "If people can't seek me out and like me for something besides clothes, I haven't any use for them, that's all."

Of course, there is something in that. But, please listen just a moment more, while a very brilliant and gifted man, who certainly might have thought he had a right to disdain appearances if anyone ever did, closes the argument for the other side of the case: "If you look as if you had slept in your clothes, most men will jump to the conclusion you have, and you will never get to know them well enough to explain that your head is so full of noble thoughts that you haven't time to bother with the dandruff on your shoulders."

—Robert Louis Stevenson.

The Candid Girl

Protests Against the Injustice Done Many a Chorus Girl.

"I AM quite sure," said the Candid Girl, "that if I were a chorus girl, I would do some very plain speaking. Seems to me chorus girls are put upon by the public, and misunderstood and misrepresented, more than any other class of self-supporting women."

"When?" said the group on the porch. "Are you thinking of joining the ranks?"

"I'm not clever enough," said the Candid Girl smiling, "but if I did, just because I wanted to earn my living by singing and dancing, or maybe had no other ability with which to earn it, is no reason why a whole lot of foolish men and boys should think I wanted no higher pleasure than to spend my spare time in their company. I might want to do it, but just because I am a chorus girl, it doesn't necessarily follow that I do want to."

"And just because I am a chorus girl is no reason why I should be treated like one of a herd of animals, by those who may be happening to drill me. The impression seems to be abroad for some reason or other, that a chorus girl is a new species of human being, and requires entirely different treatment from the ordinary individual."

"And though, no doubt, there are some chorus girls who have brought notoriety on the profession—"

"Really?" chorused the group.

"And others," went on the Candid Girl serenely, "who are so desperately poor and so in need of a few square meals that they will do most anything for a little money, the majority of them are hard-working girls who see life from an exceedingly practical standpoint, and lead a very humdrum existence; and they don't enjoy being preached about, and having kindly-intentioned people sending them tracts as if they were headed straight for perdition and had chosen this path by preference, any more than you or I would."

"Most of them go on the stage, in spite of their parents' objections," said one.

"If their parents wouldn't object," said the Candid Girl, "but would give them kudos when they saw they were in earnest, and be interested in their work, it would be much better. When they defy their parents, they start with a hardening of the heart that isn't a good influence. If they felt that their parents were watching them with interest and sympathy and pride, even those who have eventually followed the primrose path would probably not have found it so alluring at the start. Their parents' objection centred them to the work with that 'don't-care' feeling that weakens at the outset; their moral fibre."

"A lot of injustice is done the chorus girl," concluded the Candid Girl. "The front rows take her as something provided especially for their amusement, and the public generally regard her as something requiring disinfection, when all the time she is just a girl like any of us, with feelings the same as we all have."

Lost Time.

The late Sylvanus Miller, civil engineer, who was engaged in a railroad enterprise in Central America, was seeking to give the matter point. He asked a native: "How long does it take to carry your goods to market by muleback?" "Three days," was the reply. "That's the point," said Miller. "With our road in operation you could take your goods to market and be back home in one day." "Very good, senator," answered the native. "But what would we do with the other two days?"

For Uniform Pronunciation.

The worship of the Roman Catholic church is in Latin. This tongue is differently pronounced in different countries. The verb "to make" in the sentence "God made heaven and earth," for example, is pronounced "feet" in England, "fitch" in Italy, and "feet" in Germany. The pope and Vatican authorities are leading in a movement to make the pronunciation uniform throughout the world. The Italian pronunciation will probably be chosen as the standard.

MAKING WORK EFFECTIVE.

In this day of specialists and specializing we hear so much of making everything count. There is no work, profession or business where this is more important than in home-making.

How necessary it is that the housekeeper should be trained to make every move count in order to save strength and temper. "To make her hand save her heels," as our grandmothers would say.

The trained woman, one who loves her work, does her task as perfectly as she knows how to do. There is no slippish work; things sometimes must be left undone because of circumstances, but the machinery of her home moves noiselessly because it is oiled with brains. A great painter was once asked "with what do you mix your colors?" He replied: "With brains."

The woman with trained mind begins with her appearance, wearing garments suitable for her station and work, knowing that she must be neat first and always. Because a dress is made for a work dress does not mean that it need be unattractive, for the simple little one-piece gown with cuffs and turnover collar of contrasting material are most becoming. It one has work to do that will soil a gown, have the high-collared apron to slip on, and when called away it may be quickly slipped off, and one need never be ashamed of one's appearance.

The trained woman wastes no time. She rises early, "while it is yet night (for many), and gives the most to her household and a portion to her maidens."

It is wonderful what may be accomplished by systematic regular application. Have a book or paper at hand when resting; read the article or joke or lecture that will refresh the mind and improve it.

DAILY DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN, Food Specialist.

SALT.

Common salt is too commonly used. Dr. Woodward of Chicago has studied its effects for many years and believes it is far less necessary and far more harmful than is generally supposed, at least in the excessive quantities in which it is generally used. It excites the flow of saliva, but this should not be necessary if there is natural appetite. It is better to depend upon the taste of the food to do this. Sodium and chlorine, of which salt is composed, are valuable mineral elements in nutrition, but only organized salts, as in milk, cereals, fruits and other vegetables and meat, are assimilated, to any considerable degree, if at all, for the salt ingested can be recovered in the secretions, so that it serves no useful purpose. The writer has lived for many months at a time without using any common salt at all, and ordinarily gets only what he takes in bread, never using any condiment. There is enough sodium and chlorine in milk, nuts and fruits in the form in which they are readily assimilated, and it is altogether unnecessary to take salt separately. Dr. Woodward believes that the excessive use of salt causes serious irritation and excitement of delicate organs, and my own experiments confirm his large experience in this.

Thought of Today
By MRS. ROBERT N. LAVOLLETTE.

THE YOUNG CHILD.

HERE came to visit us on the farm a very dear child from the city. We anticipated his coming and the pleasure he would feel from the new environment. But his father and mother and nurse came with him. The nurse watched the child, and the mother watched the nurse, and the father watched the mother to see that the nurse watched the child.

All we can do for our children is to prepare them to take care of themselves in the world, and we can not begin too soon. When a child shows the least desire to handle himself, he should be allowed to learn how. Put a comforter on the floor or ground and let him kick and roll and put his toes in his mouth. When he begins to walk, let him go; what matter if he occasionally falls and bumps his head? It teaches him caution. He begins to think for himself. It is just as foolish to try and teach a child to care for himself by having a nurse watch his every move as it is to expect a boy to learn to make his living and have his father provide every cent and tell him how he shall spend it.

Freedom to let exercise the will, the legs and the brain, and is the foundation of character and of healthy, all-around development. You may say a child is perfectly healthy physically,—grows just the requisite number of pounds and inches in given time, has just the right number of red and white corpuscles, has never been sick, and so on,—but unless he has been allowed to exercise his own will and do for himself, he has been cheated of his rights. He is soft, repressed and poorly started in life.

TO MAKE A SAILOR KING OF PRINCE OF WALES.

Queen Mary of England, the Prince of Wales and Princess Mary.

London, Eng.—One of the first official acts of the Prince of Wales, is his trip to the great German naval review at Schweinfurt, August 30. He will be accompanied on his trip by his mother, Queen Mary of England, and his sister, Princess Mary. This act doubtless foreshadows a naval career for the future English ruler similar to the training received by his father. While in Germany he will meet the future rulers of Austria and Turkey.

FRUIT AND PUDDING PUFFS

Elaborate Direction for the Making of Material Upon Which So Much Depends.

Fruit Puff 1.—One pint of flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon soda. Sift all together and stir in sweet milk until stiff batter is formed. Put tablespoons of batter into tea-cups until half is used, add to latter in each cup a spoonful of any kind of canned fruit, preserves or stewed apples without juice. Put a spoonful of batter on top of the fruit, set cups in steamer and steam. Good served with milk or sweetened fruit juice.

Fruit Puff 2.—Mix together one cup of milk, one and a half cups of flour, one heaping teaspoon baking powder, a little salt and a small handful of dried currants. Place in well-greased cups and steam 20 minutes. Sauce: One cup of milk, two-thirds cup of sugar, one teaspoon flour, piece of butter the size of a small egg, vanilla flavoring. Cook until consistency of cream.

Pudding Puffs.—One egg well beaten, two tablespoons of sugar, two tablespoons of butter, one cup of milk, one teaspoon baking powder. Put in buttered cups and steam one hour. Sauce: Two tablespoons sugar, one tablespoon butter, one teaspoon flour, one cup of boiling water, one teaspoon vanilla.

Puff Pudding.—One-half cup of sugar, butter size of walnut and melted, one-half cup milk, one egg well beaten, one cup of flour, two teaspoons baking powder. Mix well and bake in patty tins for 20 minutes. This will make six. Cream sauce: One cup of brown sugar, one teaspoon of flour. Cover with water, add small lump of butter, and boil until thick. It is better to cook this in an iron frying pan, as it turns easily in granular ware.

TALK TO HOUSE-KEEPERS

TALKS TO HOUSEKEEPERS

CONSERVES.

The conserves have proven to be so popular, that, while they cannot usurp the place that jams and jellies have held for so many years, they have found a very warm spot in the hearts of all lovers of sweets.

APPLE CONSERVE is a delightful accompaniment to breakfast. It may be made of crab apples or any kind of apple excepting the sweet ones. To six pounds of apples pared, cored and cut in pieces, add two pounds of seeded raisins and five pounds of sugar. Add just enough water to cover the mixture from burning, and cook slowly until thick. Just before removing from the fire, add half a pound of broken nut meats. Pour into jelly glasses. If desired, the juice and grated rind of four oranges or three lemons may be added to the apples, raisins and sugar and cooked in with them. Either lends a delicate flavor to the apples.

PEACH CONSERVE is a most delicious combination of peaches and sour apples. To four pounds of peaches pared, pitted and cut in pieces, add two pounds of sour apples pared, cored and cut, and two pounds of seeded raisins. To this add a very scant five pounds of sugar and just enough water to keep the mixture from burning. Cook very slowly until thick; just before removing from the fire, add half a pound of broken nut meats. Pour into jelly glasses.

GRAPE CONSERVE has a delicate richness that will be enjoyed by all. It is really quite simple in preparation, though it sounds more "fussy" basket of grapes, setting the pulp aside. Boil the pulp without water for five minutes, then press through a colander to remove the seeds. Add the skins and one and one-half pounds of seeded raisins to the strained pulp and measure, adding a scant measure for measure of sugar. Put this mixture over the fire and let it boil for twenty minutes. Just before removing from the fire, add half a pound of broken nut meats. Pour into jelly glasses.

A slight variation from this recipe is also most delectable and is a delicious change. Put three quarts of grapes which have been picked off from the stems and washed previous to measuring. Boil the pulp without water for five minutes then press through a colander to remove the seeds. Add the skins, one pound of seeded raisins, the juice and grated rind of four oranges, twelve cups of sugar and one quart of water. Boil slowly until thick, adding half a pound of broken nut meats just before removing from the fire. Pour into jelly glasses.

Man's Greatest Weakness.

As long as men remain what they are and what they have been for centuries, a woman who is an able cook will have more chances to marry than one who is not. Unfortunately, men are disposed to look for beauty as well, and beautiful women are seldom good cooks.—Algemeen Handelsblad, Amsterdam.

Beautiful.

BONED FRESH HAM IS GOOD

Try This Method of Removing the Bone and Preparing the Meat With Dressing.

Scrub the meat well in lukewarm water and slice off any bristles. If the marketman cannot bone it, take the longest and thinnest bladed knife you have and insert at the large end close to the bone; cut steadily and carefully as far through as possible; then repeat the process through the small end until the bone can be turned about and withdrawn. Cover the meat with boiling water, to which add two tablespoons of salt and simmer six hours; remove, and while hot fill the cavity with bread dressing; set in a dripping pan and pour over a pint of cider; place in a hot oven and baste every five minutes for half an hour. At the end of this time remove and take the rind from the fat, sprinkle with granulated sugar, cracker dust, and score with a hot poker.

Dressing for Ham.—Put in a saucepan a tablespoon of butter and fry in it one minced onion; then add one cup of soaked bread, the water being pressed out; half cup of stock, one teaspoon of salt, half teaspoon each of pepper and sage, half cup of celery cut into small pieces. Stir until it leaves the sides of the pan.

PLANS READY FOR EVANSVILLE FAIR; TO BE BIG EVENT

Thirtieth Annual Fair Will Be Best in History of Evansville—Many Special Features.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Evansville, Aug. 29.—Great preparations are certainly being made for the thirtieth annual fair to open here Tuesday, Sept. 5, and continuing through Friday. The grand stand and all other new buildings will be completed, and the grounds cleaned up and everything ready for the fair by tomorrow night. It will be the best in its history according to the present outlook.

The management this year have worked hard to secure attractions of the very best class, and each day there will be something worth seeing in the way of special features. The latest addition to the list of attractions was secured this morning when Mrs. De Vonda the noted balloonist was engaged to make an ascension each day of the fair. Entries are already coming in plentifully, especially for the horse races.

The Brooklyn band will furnish music Tuesday, the Milton band will play Wednesday and the Evansville Military band Thursday and Friday. The ball games never fail to attract an enthusiastic crowd and the event in that line will be a game between the Albany and Evansville high schools on Tuesday, Monroe and Stoughton, Wednesday, Albany and a club from Janesville Thursday, and the winners of the game will play the Beloit Cubs on Friday.

The ladies of the Baptist church will have charge of the dining hall this year which insures the visitors plenty of good things to eat. There will also be a number of good side shows, and last but not least a musical merry-go-round.

The agricultural display promises to be of the best as it is said that field crops and garden exhibits are superior to most parts of the state, the plentiful rains and ideal climate conditions having favored vegetation. It is expected that the attendance will be unusually large. The main entrance to the grounds is now at the end of Longfield street.

Pastor Recalled.
At the quarterly meeting of the Methodist church held last evening it was unanimously voted to invite the pastor Rev. Charles E. Noon to return for another year.

Personal News.

NOTES FOR CITY FARMERS ONLY.

(By H. L. RANN.)

We are asked, "How can you best tell the age of a hen?" There is only one way and that is by the color of the tail feathers at the moult period. A yearling hen wears plumage tail feathers, a six-year-old hen, the polka dot effect, and the fowl bowed down with age and grief wears here doled and done up in a half net. The farmer who can't tell the exact age of a pullet by face to face inspection of her tail feathers ought to leave the farm and study law.

The watermelon is the cause of more bun tubs and etiquette than the potato served with the jacket on, which has to be impaled at the waist line and disrobed before the eyes of a polite company. We don't know which is worse—the man who inhales a vertical section of watermelon with a gulping intake like the suction of a steam pump or the guest who runs a nervous finger over his rear rums in order to round up an overflow of green corn. The coarse husband who causes a watermelon rind to meet behind his ears every time he makes a pass at it has induced many a trustful wife to view the table manners of the absent with increasing admiration.

A prominent eastern society journal conveys the discouraging information that the mold of fashion in New York and Newport is about to discard the time-honored practice of swabbing a piece of eye bread in the gravy and wiping one's fingers on the nearest doily. The decrees of fashion become more cruel and arbitrary every year.

Million-Dollar Suggestions

Distilled From Advertising Experience

To our every client our business advice is the most valuable service we render.

Many can point to some single idea which has proved itself worth more than all our commissions.

And a single suggestion, quite a number of times, has netted some client over one million dollars.

This business of ours, while called merely advertising, really involves the whole science of making money.

Our ability to warn, to suggest and accomplish, results from a rare experience.

For a good many years we have been selling advisers to leaders in a thousand lines.

With them we have met the countless problems of selling. We have seen them solved, both rightly and wrongly, in a good many different ways.

We have watched the outcome of every solution. Every mistake and success has been analyzed.

Where most men learn from one business experience we have learned from a thousand. And the lessons are all recorded.

For about every selling question that ever comes up, the very best answer men ever obtained is found in our Books of Experience.

There lies the value—the utter need of efficient help in selling.

Mere advertising—mere force of attack—rarely wins out under modern conditions. It can never win out against Strategy.

Advertising must be aided by many clever maneuvers. It must be backed by right methods and policies.

Mrs. Johnnie Hyland entertained the Happy Hour Club last Thursday. A large crowd was present and had a very nice time.

Roundabout Way to Happiness.
If everything in the holy state of matrimony went on too smoothly we should not be aware of how happy we are. We should not realize that a horse was well trained if horses never never ran away. We should never know that marriage makes for long life were it not that there are incidental troubles which sometimes shorten it.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Father finds that his own way for quiet and rest is no climb.

CHATTANOOGA

A FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY WAR STORY BY F. A. MITCHELL.

Copyright, 1892, by Mitchell Press Association.

There was a planned look on Mrs. Paine's countenance. She belonged to the Baptist denomination and believed thoroughly that the world was made in six days of twenty-four hours each. "Professor," she said, "I trust that you will remain in the neighborhood a long while, and I beg you to honor us by making this house your home in the meantime."

Mark was standing with a half filled glass of wine in his left hand, while his right was on his head. Mrs. Paine made her exit through the door by which she had come, opening into the dining room. As the door closed Mark was bounding to the door, closely representing a South Carolina gentleman of the olden time.

He heard something like a low cry—half surprised, half terror—from Laura. Turning quickly toward her he saw her eyes fixed in a stare on some object at the door opening into the hall. Another turn of his head and there stood the figure of Captain Cameron, Fitz Hugh.

Twice before had Mark seen that face, once when Fitz Hugh had approached the Paine house the morning Mark had left for Chattanooga, and once when the young Confederate had defended him at the trial.

No sooner had Captain Fitz Hugh laid eyes on Mark's face than he recognized the spy he had defended at Chattanooga.

"Professor," he said coolly, "you are very adroit."

Mark turned scarlet, and then ashy pale. For a moment it seemed that his legs would not support him.

"Since you are so good at extorting yourself from difficulties, you have a fine opportunity to show your skill now." Fitz Hugh spoke with his hand on the handle of his pistol. "May I trouble you to throw up your hands, professor?"

"It is not necessary," said Mark. "I am unarmed."

A picture of his certain fate flashed across his mind, and he wished Fitz Hugh would shoot him.

"On your word of honor?"

"Why do you ask such a question? You know that I am an arch deceiver."

"At any rate, you are a gentleman. Never mind throwing up your hands."

Laura remained silent, staring at them both as though she had lost her reason. Had she a hundred things to say her tongue could not have been made to utter one.

Mark turned toward Fitz Hugh and looked him square in the face. He had conceived an idea, a foolish idea, it is true, still a hope. So long as the people's peculiarities, he had gotten an insight into Fitz Hugh's character.

"May I trouble you to throw up your hands?"

Mark sprang forward and seized him by the wrist.

"My God, this shall not be! You believe that this is due to more than an ordinary womanly interest in Miss Paine for me. It is not so. I swear to you, on the honor of a gentleman and a soldier, that Miss Paine has manifested no other feeling than one of commiseration for a man hunted for his life."

"Your words do you credit, sir. Miss Paine, will you make my address to your mother? And I leave it to you to impart to her whatever, if anything, you may have to say as to the reason for my farewell to you."

He turned quickly and left the room.

CHAPTER XIII.

OFF FOR THE UNION LINES.

MARK'S first impulse after Fitz Hugh's departure was to leave the house at once. He tried to say something to Laura to soothe her, to excuse his own unfortunate part in her breaking with her lover. He could only go to her and taking her hand kissed it without a word. Then he told her that he should take the risk of capture and depart instantly.

He was discarding upon the method of his departure in quick, excited tones, when a horseman entered the yard, and riding on the veranda delivered a letter from his belt and handed it to a negro who went out to receive it. It was for Mrs. Paine. It had been sent through the lines from Nashville, where her husband was lying dangerously ill, and begged her to come to him.

After his perusal Mrs. Paine determined to set out the next day, taking with her her daughter and the maid Alice. Daniel would drive them.

"You shall go with us," said Laura to Mark. "This is fortunate. In our company you will be far safer than trying to make your way alone."

It occurred to Mark that since he was being hunted as a half starved creature in the disguise of a negro girl he would be less liable to suspicion as a well dressed man traveling with a party of southern ladies than in any other character. At any rate he took this view of it, and when Mrs. Paine announced her intention to go he offered to escort the party to the Union lines.

The offer was accepted, and preparations were made to leave the next morning. Mrs. Paine wrote a note to the officer in command at Chattanooga (to send with the letter she had received from her husband for his personal asking for a pass for herself, her daughter and two servants. Mark took the misadventure and went out to find Daniel, who had just returned from Chattanooga.

"Well, Daniel?"

"What did you learn?"

"I learned every one talked 'bout some 'darned' do 'nuff, and they said they was goin' to Knoxville. They was marchin' in marchin' all do 'nuff way. I followed 'n dey bring up at de depot. I saw one train after another go out full of soldiers inside and hangin' on to de platform and on de roofs."

"How many trains did you see go out?"

"Fourty hundred."

"Daniel," said Mark, smiling at the figures, "you're smart as a whip. But you'll have to go right back to Chattanooga, and take this note to the commanding officer with this letter from your sick master to show him. The note is a request for a pass for the party to the Union lines. Keep your wits about you, and if he is an easy going sort of a man, you might try to get him to put in three servants instead of two. At any rate try to ring me in if you can. Do you understand?"

"Heckon I do, sah."

"Can you read?"

"A little. Missie Laura learned me."

"Well, read the pass he may give you and ask him to fix it so that it will include me as a servant. But you must use your judgment."

Daniel drove again to Chattanooga. Mark waited anxiously for his return. Indeed so impatient was he that he thought the negro had been gone twice as long as he had when he saw him drive into the yard. He at once went out to the barn to meet him.

"Any luck?" he asked anxiously.

"I got de pass for miles and de rest, but I didn't get what yo' wanted. I got a paper hawk. Maybe I'll do."

Mark took the paper. It was a pass for Thomas Green and wife from Chattanooga to the Union lines.

"How did you get this?" asked Mark, surprised.

what I want, but ingenuously will have to help me through. You're a trump, Daniel."

In the morning when all was ready, for the departure two vehicles were brought around to the door, the one, a two horse carriage, the other Laura's phaeton, drawn by her pony. Mrs. Paine entered the former with Alice, Daniel being in the driver's seat. Laura and Mark got into the phaeton.

All went well during the first ten or twelve miles, when Mark received a piece of information which seriously interfered with his plan. Meeting a courier riding toward Chattanooga, who looked as if he might be the bearer of some important news, Mark halted him and asked if he had anything from the front.

"The Yankees air gettin' no'th right smart," the man replied. "Reckon th' air left Battle creek."

Mark argued that if this were true there would be confusion on that route, and it would be better to take another road. They were not far from the road leading from the Chattanooga, plike north to Anderson, on which the Slacks lived. Mark concluded to take this road as far as Anderson, and then strike west with a view to reaching McMillenville on the other side of the mountains. Mrs. Paine left at Professor Relt, in whom she had perfect confidence, and on coming to the road in question Mark led the party northward.

The change of route was unfortunate, inasmuch as it would add another day to the journey. The departure from the Paine residence had been delayed by the preparations till nearly noon. McMillenville was a considerable distance over the mountains, and Mark knew they could not reach it that night. He remembered that they would soon pass the Slacks, and it occurred to him that it would be a capital place to pass the night, giving them a good day of twelve hours light on the morrow to pursue their journey. His disappointment at the delay was compensated for by the thought that he would likely learn something of South and Jakey, of whom he had heard nothing since he left them in the Chattanooga jail.

At last they drove up to the Slacks' gate. Mark handed the reins to Laura and jumped from the phaeton impatiently. Not seeing any one in the front of the house he proceeded to the rear. The first person he met was Jakey. He took the boy up and hugged him.

"Are you glad to see your big brother, Jakey?"

"Ain't 'nuff 'bout it," said Jakey, his eyes glistening and his expressive face radiant with pleasure and excitement. She had heard nothing of Mark since he left her in prison. Mark seized her by both hands.

"You uns air safe. I knowed it," she said, almost in a whisper. She could hardly speak for joy.

"For the present, Jakey, thanks to you."

Mark asked no questions then. He knew that they were safe and at home, and he hastened to inform them and the father and mother who came out to welcome him that he was with a party who was unwary of his true character, which they must not betray, and desired permission to stay in the house over night. Then he led them around to the gate. Daniel had meanwhile caught up, and the two vehicles were halted in the road.

"We will spend the night with these good people," said Mark. "They are quite willing, and will make us as comfortable as possible."

The party alighted and the horses were driven to the barn. Mrs. Paine and her daughter were given the room in which Mark had changed his clothes when he went through the south, and Mark was assigned a bedroom on the gallery, or in the barn, or any other place he might select.

Laura found Mark's uniform and arms concealed beneath the bed.

"What do you suppose it means, mamma?" she said.

"I fear," replied the mother, "that we shall be murdered before morning. These people are doubtless guerrillas."

HER PROMISE.

"I'll leave tonight. Can't you give me a little hope?"

"Yes, indeed. Why, he wouldn't even laugh out loud in a smoking car."

SUMMER WORK.

"First Post—You look warm and tired out."

"Second Post—I am. I've been busy all day writing Christmas stuff."

Almost a Freak.

"Cuperton is a very quiet person."

"Yes, indeed. Why, he wouldn't even laugh out loud in a smoking car."

Essence of Luxury.

"Yes, I welcome the era of high prices—one may live so much more luxuriously."

"Just how do you make that out?"

"Why, there are so many more things that one cannot afford," Puck asked.

That's Why.

"Dentist—Why, my dear sir, you seem to be frightened half to death."

"Patient—I am, doctor, and yet I brought my nerve with me."

Sure thing.

"The man on the curb has just made investments in inflated stock."

"How do you know that?"

"Don't you see he is selling toy balloons?"

Marked Down.

Two little boys were selling lemonade to earn circus money. A thirsty old gentleman stopped at the stand of the first little boy and drank three glasses of the beverage. He then passed to the stand of the second little boy. "Are you aware," he asked pleasantly, "that the little boy across the way only asks three cents a glass for his lemonade, while you charge five?"

The lad addressed answered very readily: "Yes, I know, sir, but his lemonade is what the puppy fell in."—Metropolitan Magazine.

New Bed Needed.

"During the days of the gold fever in California," said an old sea captain, "our ship was so crowded that you could hardly get a place to sleep. 'Captain,' said a man when we were three days out, 'I have just got to have some place to sleep.'"

"Where have you been sleeping?" asked.

"I have been sleeping on a sick man," the passenger said, "but he's getting better now."—Success.

Not What She Needed Most.

"I am sending you a thousand kisses," he wrote to his fair young wife who was spending her first month away from him.

Two days later he received the following telegram:

"Kisses received. Landlord refuses to accept any of them on account."

Then he woke up and forwarded a check.

Decoration.

"Gladys Maud spent weeks and weeks toiling on her graduation essay."

"The mental strain must have been fearful."

"Yes, indeed. It took her ten days to select a ribbon."

Man's Greatest Weakness.

As long as men remain what they are and what they have been for centuries, a woman who is an able cook will have more chances to marry than one who is not. Unfortunately, men are disposed to look for beauty as well, and beautiful women are seldom good cooks.—Algemeen Handelsblad, Amsterdam.

Indications of Frost.

The sudden cooling off of the atmosphere has excited apprehensions of a frost. A strong wind which prevailed last night doubtless prevented the visitation, but if the clouds should clear away and the wind cease to blow while the air is at its present temperature, we may look for a frost which will do serious injury to the tobacco crop.

For Greeley's Lecture.

Orders for tickets to Horace Greeley's lecture, on the seventh of next month, are already coming in from the country and towns in this vicinity so rapidly that the committee has concluded to begin their sale tomorrow morning. Reserved seats will be disposed of at Mosley Bros' bookstore, without extra charge. There is a prospect of a large attendance from Brodhead, Monroe and Evansville. Other towns have not yet been heard from directly, but there is every reason to believe that this popular lecturer will be greeted with an overflowing house on the occasion of his visit in this city.

A cotton wedding at the residence of C. M. Treat, of Clinton, last evening, was the affair of the season. Over two hundred guests were present. Workmen are tearing down the half burned building adjoining Echlin & Foote's store, on West Milwaukee street. We understand that John Watson, who owns the property, is to commence the erection of a brick block tomorrow morning. Reserved seats will be disposed of at Mosley Bros' bookstore, without extra charge. There is a prospect of a large attendance from Brodhead, Monroe and Evansville. Other towns have not yet been heard from directly, but there is every reason to believe that this popular lecturer will be greeted with an overflowing house on the occasion of his visit in this city.

DEVOTES LIFE TO RESEARCH.

Dr. Charles L. Metz, who has made some of the richest finds as to the lives of prehistoric Indians of North America than have ever been made.

Boston, Mass.—In a year or so Harvard university will publish a report extensively illustrated with rare photographic reproductions of a work they have been extensively engaged in secretly for the past 25 years.

This report will cover the work of the Harvard University Research committee which, under the guidance of Dr. Chas. L. Metz of Madisonville, Ohio, has made some of the richest finds as to the lives of prehistoric Indians of North America than have ever been made.

Dr. Chas. L. Metz has spent the past twenty-six years of his life in the research work and since 1876 has examined 7,000 skeletons of the early inhabitants of America and more than 10,000 earthenware vessels and utensils used by these people. Since his connection with the work of the university the committee has taken up the work of Dr. Metz and 3,000 more skeletons and thousands of curious articles used by the early mound builders and Indians have been recovered from the buried ground of these ancient people near Madisonville, Ohio. The finds have been so valuable that universities throughout the United States and the big universities and colleges of Europe have been supplied with the skeletons and utensils of these prehistoric people, examined by Dr. Metz.

Cement Building Blocks

A complete stock of cement building blocks and porch piers on hand.

There is no better material for house foundations than cement blocks. They're attractive, durable and not costly.

Early Showed Greatness.

Andrew Jackson was a marvel of precocity. He carried a flintlock musket, as a soldier of the revolutionary army, at the age of 14. At 23 he was appointed by Washington district attorney of Tennessee. He was a United States senator at 30. He did not reach the presidency until he was 62.—Sunday Magazine.

A Business Proposition

We believe that we have a business proposition which will interest any man who will take time to look into it. We are the owners of about 150,000 acres of fine grazing and farming land in the Round Lake Country of Wisconsin, the country where the never have a crop failure, where the rainfall is sufficient, where the markets are of the best, where there are schools, churches, good roads, neighbors and in fact where you can get land cheap, which will yield you as much produce as the high priced land of this southern section of our State. We can sell you this land at prices ranging from $5.50 to $20.00 per acre and give you ten years in which to pay for it.

Come in and ask for literature or better yet go up with me and look it over and satisfy yourself that what I am telling you is the truth.
